THE BUSINESS MADINA BUILT

When heavy rains flooded communities in Sudan, destroying crops, schools, clinics and latrines, Madina’s house was swamped with dirty floodwater.

Islamic Relief Canada repaired and installed water sources to provide safe drinking water to Madina’s village.

Madina realized that with clean water she could make coffee and tea. As the family breadwinner, she could sell it.

“I started my business on my own. Now I can provide for my children,” says Madina. “I would like to thank the donors. I wish upon them happiness.”

MESSAGE FROM CO-CHAIRS

For many people in Canada, 2021 may seem like a bit of a blur. Sandwiched between the onset of a global pandemic in 2020, and the world-changing events of 2022, it's easy to lose sight of what went on last year.

The coronavirus wasn't new. Hunger and conflict and natural disasters were not new. The impact of climate change on the most vulnerable was not new.

And yet, the year that some of us may have trouble remembering will be a year that millions of people will never forget.

In 2021,

...the second wave of COVID-19 swept across India, overwhelming health services and draining oxygen supplies. The toll of critical illness, coupled with lockdowns and curfews, had a serious impact on livelihoods and food security across the country;

...a devastating earthquake rocked Haiti, destroying homes and infrastructure in a country still struggling to recover from the earthquake in 2010;

...volcanoes, flooding, cyclones and earthquakes wreaked havoc around the world, causing death and destruction in communities already facing poverty and insecurity.

In 2021, around the clock and around the world, families lost loved ones, their homes, their livelihoods.

Together, we were there. Together, we provided food, water, shelter and health care to people affected by disasters. Together we acted to save and rebuild lives.

We work together because our organizations share a common vision of providing rapid and effective emergency assistance to survivors of disasters. We believe that by collaborating, we can reach more people and save more lives.

That "together" also includes you – donors, supporters, corporate and media partners, the Canadian government – all of whom brought help and hope to those who needed it the most during 2021.

And that is most certainly something worth remembering.

Thank you for being part of the Humanitarian Coalition.

RESPONDING TOGETHER

As we began 2021, our members were continuing to provide aid in many countries around the world following disasters that occurred in 2020. Several more responses began in 2021. Emergencies that were supported by joint fundraising appeals and a collective response of member agencies are highlighted in red. The 🧑 represents the number of people your donations have helped.

INDIA COVID CRISIS

CRISIS

The second wave of COVID-19 in India was devastating as the country became the epicentre of the pandemic.

Hospitals were overwhelmed, crematoriums were not keeping up with the demand, and the country was running out of oxygen.

Besides the health and burial facilities, the pandemic greatly impacted population groups who had already been struggling, such as the migrant workers, single-parent families, and child-headed households. As economic activities came to a standstill, families and communities struggled to pay for the necessities of life.

With the spread of the disease into rural areas, lack of access to COVID information, medical care and vaccines only complicated the situation.

The pandemic also had a negative impact on child well-being since schools and early childhood centres shut down, underprivileged families were unable to access the technology for remote learning, and the stress of the disease and the lockdowns left children and women at higher risk of abuse.

APPEAL

The Humanitarian Coalition ran a joint appeal for India from May 4 – June 2, enabling a distribution of $1,100,000 thanks to the generosity of Canadian donors.

Notable Canadians, including Nav Bathia – Toronto Raptors Superfan, Hazel McCallion – businesswoman and former mayor of Mississauga, and Randip Janda - Hockey Night in Punjabi host, supported the appeal.

ET Canada ran a star-studded “Help India” television special on Global TV to highlight the needs and raise funds for the Humanitarian Coalition response.

RESPONSE

Humanitarian Coalition members responded to the crisis by supporting the health-care system with oxygen, ventilators, field hospitals and PPE, promoting COVID vaccination and safe hygiene practices, and ensuring food security and basic survival for vulnerable families, reaching 371,470 people.

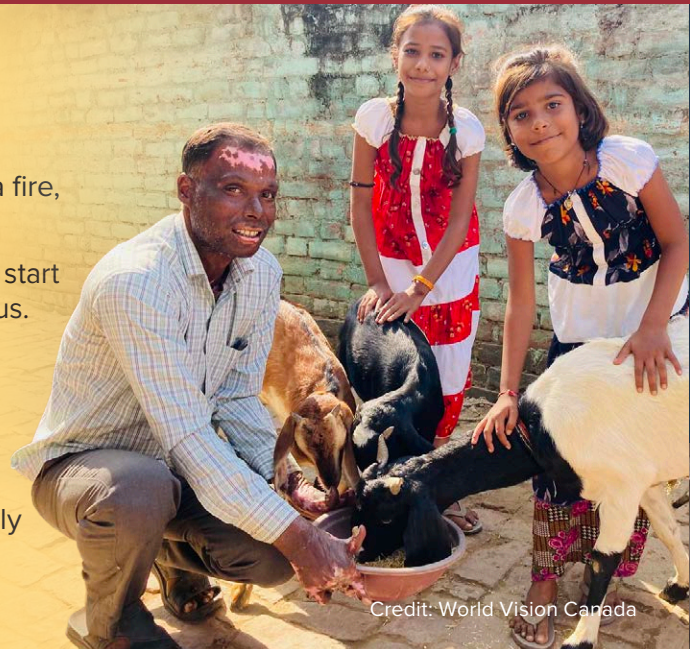

ONE SHOP, TWO GOATS, AND THREE FUTURES

“My name is Arun and I have two daughters. My wife died in a fire, and I was severely burned trying to save her.

“Although I recovered from my injuries, I lost my job. I decided to start a small grocery shop at home, but this pandemic badly affected us.

“World Vision supported us with cash assistance with which I purchased some stock for the shop and two goats. Now they have given birth, so we have three goats.

“My shop is now rolling and I am able to have a steady monthly income. We are so thankful that World Vision supported our family and now we have brighter hope for tomorrow.”

A TAILORED RESPONSE

For Santoshi Samal, a 24-year-old agricultural worker in India, the COVID-19 lockdown made it impossible to earn any income for her basic needs.

In response to the crisis, partners of Canadian Lutheran World Relief provided a cash transfer to tide her over.

Santoshi put the funds toward a sewing machine. This was a major step toward her dream of earning a living as a tailor and working from her own home.

“I have no words to express my heartfelt gratitude,” Santoshi says.

“I got this opportunity to buy a machine and now I’ll stand on my own feet without depending on others.”

ACTIVITIES

Our members have provided:

-  oxygen concentrators to hospitals and health centres
-  tents, beds, medical equipment and supplies to medical facilities
-  community outreach to address vaccination hesitancy
-  support for community members to register for vaccinations
-  logistics support for vaccination campaigns in remote communities
-  personal protective equipment (PPE) to health-care workers
-  COVID-19 care kits and hygiene kits which include soap, disinfectants, washing powder, masks, gloves and household-level diagnostic equipment
-  training for community leaders on COVID-19 prevention and response
-  financial support to the most vulnerable families through cash transfers
-  food kits with dry rations
-  gender-based violence awareness and prevention trainings
-  community awareness on potential child protection issues – child marriage, child trafficking, child labour, child sexual abuse
-  reintegration of children orphaned due to COVID-19
-  mental health support to affected people, including children, with the help of counsellors.

SURVIVING A DARK YEAR

When the second wave of COVID-19 swept across India, Bamdi Paharin's family lost their livelihood. Fortunately, Canadian Foodgrains Bank provided cash transfers to ensure vulnerable families had food, and the opportunity to get back on their feet.

But Bamdi's troubles were not over. In the midst of the pandemic, her husband was bitten by a snake and died.

The team ensured the allocations continued in Bamdi's name so she did not have to borrow money or leave her children to find work.

She used the money to buy food, toiletries, and medicine. She also bought seeds to ensure a source of income in the future – a future that can now be brighter for Bamdi and her family.

HAITI EARTHQUAKE

CRISIS

A 7.2-magnitude earthquake struck southwestern Haiti at 8:30 am on Saturday, August 14 – the worst natural disaster of 2021. At least 2,248 people were killed, and more than 12,200 people were injured. Homes, schools, churches and hospitals were destroyed. Some 650,000 people were in need of humanitarian assistance.

The earthquake happened one month after the assassination of the Haitian president, Jovenel Moïse, in a context of insecurity, social upheaval and rising hunger.

The immediate priority needs were for health care, clean water, sanitation, food, shelter, and protection, especially for displaced women and children.

APPEAL

In response to the needs of the communities affected by the earthquake, and the desire of Canadians to find a way to help, the Humanitarian Coalition launched a national fundraising appeal on August 16. It is noteworthy that the day before, on August 15, the Prime Minister of Canada launched a federal election and the government of Afghanistan fell to the Taliban. Despite these critical domestic and international issues, and the challenging media landscape, Canadians responded generously to the needs in Haiti, with donations totalling $5.15 million, including a matching grant of $2 million from the Government of Canada.

Canada

RESPONSE

Eleven of twelve Humanitarian Coalition member agencies are responding to the humanitarian needs of 234,969 people across the Grand'Anse, Nippes, and Sud departments of Haiti. We are working with our Haitian staff and local partners to care for the injured and provide temporary shelter for the homeless. We are delivering emergency food, water, and personal hygiene supplies. We are helping children and families deal with their trauma. We are working to ensure the safety and well-being of vulnerable people, especially women and children.

The work that our members are doing involves community participation, training and transfer of knowledge and skills.

PEACE FOR A SHAKEN FAMILY

"On the day of the earthquake, I was home alone with the children," says Wesnotte Siméus, mother of five.

"Suddenly I felt everything around me shaking and starting to fall. I grabbed my little girl and screamed for the others to follow me. We got out of the house under the falling blocks.

"The earthquake caused landslides which destroyed our gardens," she says. "My house was badly damaged."

Save the Children provided Wesnotte's family with large tarpaulins and a hygiene kit with basic personal and cleaning supplies.

"I have no words to thank Save the Children for these tarpaulins. This will allow us to close part of the house and sleep more peacefully."

SPOTLIGHT: ACTION AGAINST HUNGER

Action Against Hunger provided nutrition, health, and water and hygiene services following the earthquake.

They supported feeding programs and provided mental health services for children and adults.

They provided drinking water and menstrual hygiene management kits; and they taught safe food practices, handwashing and hygiene in communities.

FROM INJURY TO AMBITION

Stephanie was inside her house in the Cayes, Haiti when a wall fell and fractured her leg.

She is among the many who received care for their injuries from Humanity & Inclusion and their Haitian partner following the earthquake. The team gave her new crutches and taught her how to walk with them. She also learned to do exercises while her leg was in a cast for six weeks.

“I’m happy that I can walk on crutches now,” Stephanie said. “I don’t like being carried around, and now I can be independent again.”

She said she hopes to become a doctor one day, “to help other people with broken legs.”

LEBANON CRISIS—OVERVIEW

On August 4, 2020, the explosion in the port of Beirut, Lebanon, caused the death of at least 218 people and injured 7,000. The blast destroyed the port and damaged homes, businesses and infrastructure.

Thanks to the generosity of Canadian donors, and a matching grant from the Canadian government, we were able to provide almost $12 million in humanitarian aid for people affected by the blast.

We delivered immediate and longer-term assistance, in large part thanks to an already established network of trusted and capable local partners. In the immediate aftermath of the blast, our member agencies provided emergency aid that included home repairs, food, drinking water and health care. Throughout 2021, the emphasis shifted to more long-term initiatives, such as assisting small businesses to get back up and running and other livelihood supports.

Despite significant challenges, including COVID lockdowns, currency fluctuation and the instability of power sources, the number of people reached exceeded our initial plans, and the level of satisfaction among beneficiaries was very high.

Although our members initially planned to reach 89,555 individuals, altogether a total of 143,902 people received assistance.

“THIS HAS HELPED ME COPE”

Mohammad was working at the port in Beirut at the time of the explosion. “I didn’t know how to reach my husband until someone told me he was in the hospital,” says his wife, Amal.

The family was then forced to leave their damaged home.

“It was a very stressful period,” Amal says. “My children, especially the younger ones, were crying more often and wouldn’t leave me alone.”

Doctors of the World helped the family find a new place to live, and provided psychological support sessions for the children and follow-up medical care for Mohammad.

“They were very helpful,” Amal says. “I have noticed improvement in the children’s behaviour and the fear has reduced.”

“This has helped me cope with all the stress we are facing.”

SPOTLIGHT ON SMALL BUSINESSES

Small businesses, already crippled by devaluation, political instability, lack of power, shortages of supplies and the COVID-19 pandemic, were severely impacted by the explosion in Beirut. Because they form the backbone of the Lebanese economy, rehabilitating their capacity to provide essential goods and services to the population was a priority. It was also a means to ensure the livelihood of their owners, employees and suppliers, and the families who depend on them.

We supported 316 micro, small and medium enterprises and six social enterprises, mainly through financial assistance and coaching. Money was used for building repair, machinery and tools, restocking products, and paying salaries and rent.

Coaching covered topics such as procurement, finances, organization, and marketing principles.

Commercial sectors reached included sewing and fashion, food and baby food processing, honey production, homemade spices, pastry, butchery, digital education, computer science, beauty salons, and recycling centres.

The businesses supported an average of 30 people, taking into account family members of owners and staff, but not including suppliers and other service providers who also benefited from the project. The small business assistance therefore directly benefitted some 10,000 people.

SMALLER DISASTERS

Natural disasters are increasing in frequency and intensity, destroying homes, infrastructure and food supplies, and displacing masses of people. The member agencies of the Humanitarian Coalition, through their presence and international networks, are able to respond quickly and effectively to the needs of survivors. The Canadian government supports their response through the Canadian Humanitarian Assistance Fund, and additional support from Canadian donors enables rapid, appropriate action to save and rebuild lives.

A CARING AND THOUGHTFUL PROJECT

"Just thinking about it got me shaken," says Mrs. Duc. "The water rose quickly, reaching the window in such a short time. Beds, wardrobes, belongings were flooded."

It was already hard for Mrs. Duc, a widow, and her disabled daughter with her own two children, to make ends meet. When the floods rose in Ha Tinh province Vietnam, she lost her rice crops, poultry and vegetables, along with thousands of other families.

Oxfam-Québec distributed household hygiene kits to families like Mrs. Duc's.

"As we lost our belongings due to the floods, we do very much appreciate the many necessary things," she says.

"So caring and thoughtful this project is."

FLOODING, CAMBODIA

Seasonal monsoons followed by several tropical storms brought exceptionally heavy rainfall to Cambodia. World Vision Canada responded to the essential needs of families affected by flooding by distributing cash grants, as well as making repairs to schools and water sources.

WHEN WE NEEDED THEM MOST

“We had no chance to protect ourselves because it was something completely unexpected,” says Geovana Lucrecia – 49-year-old mother and widow – of the hurricane that brought flooding and devastation to Guatemala.

Geovana lost her small ice cream business and her chickens in the storm, and had no way to support her family.

Thankfully, Plan International was there to help.

“We have received hygiene kits, cleaning kits, kitchen kits, among others,” says Geovana.

“When I received the money transfers, I used part of it for my medicines, and the other part to reactivate my ice cream business.

PARTNERS

We rely on a network of partners and supporters to promote emergency appeals to their audiences. We are grateful for their compassion, their generosity and their leadership.

Special thanks to the Government of Canada for supporting the Humanitarian Coalition response to major emergencies and smaller, more frequent disasters.

MEDIA PARTNERS

“The Humanitarian Coalition is grateful for the leadership of Quebecor, who provided exceptional support in 2021 to our fundraising appeals. Through public service announcements and promotion of our campaigns across digital and print channels, Quebecor mobilized Canadians to step up and help the people of India and Haiti during the major humanitarian crises they experienced. HOW WE WORK

The Humanitarian Coalition brings together leading aid organizations to provide Canadians with a simple and effective way to donate during international humanitarian disasters. Our 12 member agencies join forces to raise funds by mobilizing media, businesses and individual Canadians. Whether it be a major international emergency or a smaller-scale crisis, our members, present in 140 countries, are ready to provide assistance and save lives.

ACCOUNTABILITY

The Humanitarian Coalition members regularly report on their progress in effectively using funds raised from individuals, corporations and the Canadian government, and may be subject at any time to third-party evaluations.

INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATION

The Humanitarian Coalition is also the Canadian representative of the Emergency Appeals Alliance, which is made up of similar collaborative fundraising coalitions from 10 countries.

INTEGRITY

Our member agencies abide by the Core Humanitarian Standards, the Code of Conduct for the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) in Disaster Relief, the Cooperation Canada Code of Ethics and Operational Standards as well as the Cooperation Canada Leaders' Pledge on Preventing and Addressing Sexual Misconduct. In addition, the Humanitarian Coalition is accredited by Imagine Canada's Standards Program and the Better Business Bureau.

COST EFFECTIVENESS

In 2021, the Humanitarian Coalition allocated more than 85% of its expenses and 94% of its revenues to programs. Core operating costs of the Humanitarian Coalition, such as staff salaries and office expenses, are supported mainly by the annual contributions of our member agencies.

ALLOCATION OF FUNDS FOR MAJOR EMERGENCIES

The funds raised during public appeals for major international emergencies are allocated to member agencies according to a pre-established formula that takes into account our members' capacity for emergency response programming.

Thanks to our donors, partners and the Canadian government, Humanitarian Coalition members are providing essential aid to people like Petit Vena, who is on her way to pick up her household hygiene kit from CARE Canada after the earthquake in Haiti.
